

If you have a conventional smoke detector, you should be checking the batteries every six months, which makes daylight saving time the perfect biannual reminder. Additionally, you should replace your smoke alarms every ten years, and CO alarms should be replaced every five to ten years.

Daylight Savings Time Ends on Sunday, November 5, 2023.